

CHILE'S SIDE OF IT. That Pugnacious Republic Has Plenty of Just Provocation FOR ITS ENMITY TO OUR COUNTRY. Our Officials Placed Obstacles in the Way of Law and Order. IT PAID THEM TO FAVOR BALMACEIDA

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—John Trumbull cables from Valparaiso the following letter to the New York Evening Post: "It would naturally be expected that the diplomatic and consular representatives of friendly powers, while zealous to protect the interests of their own citizens, would, in circumstances of reorganization, such as now exist in Chile, do all they could to render the difficulty of the situation less trying for those bearing the responsibility of re-establishing law and order. Such a spirit has not characterized the conduct of the United States officials in Chile. Their temper has been that of obstructionists, peculiarly offensive to the Chileans, who are disposed to resent spread eagles."

The previous statement that the San Francisco went up to Quintero Bay was a fact. The boat that took the Consul aboard brought back the news of the landing of the Congressionalists. Admiral Brown has denied this, and claimed his action was limited to calling his own Government, yet the telegram of Intendente Viel to Balmaceda bears no uncertain testimony to the facts that Brown was witness to the effectiveness and military meaning of the landing. Viel said he had received through the San Francisco on the morning of the 21st a list of the vessels seen, and that it was probable 10,000 men had disembarked.

The Murder of the Americans. "Concerning the murder of two American seamen, Captain Schley knew of the feeling against the United States on account of the Itata affair, the Quintero expedition and the incident of the cable cutting. Whether the feeling was justified or not, he should not have ignored it. The Consul advised him to keep the men aboard.

On October 16 leave was given for 117 men to go ashore. Sailors always make for the worse sections of the city, where drinking invariably leads to rows and arrests. In view of the prejudice existing against Americans it was highly probable that Captain Schley to land his men. Considering the unfortunate tendency of the Latin races to draw knives treacherously when Anglo-Saxons would resort to fists, it is surprising that more were not arrested. Every honorable Chilean deprecates the affair, even if he thinks it was provoked by Schley's indiscretion. Such troubles are not of rare occurrence, and their causes are manifest.

The note of the judge, forwarded to Captain Schley on November 30, calls his attention to the fact that two of the seamen, who presented themselves as witnesses at the hearing, were intoxicated, and one had to be carried out of court.

The Consul Talks Too Freely. "The question of claims growing out of the sailor's row should be considered by the United States soberly and calmly. It is impossible when those who give the Government information go about saying, as we ourselves have heard the Consul say with his own lips: "By what right of international law, I should like to know, do you, an English seaman protected on shore and our not if the Government cannot guarantee protection, we will come and establish one that will. They had a star chamber proceeding to whitewash their men, but we also ours. We spent $100,000 in getting a report, and it now rests with the Cabinet to say what shall be done. It is an international matter. I tell you, Chile is over a volcano. If she is not careful she will be wiped off the face of the earth."

"I have no personal animus against the Consul, yet his partisan feeling and rash talk show a desire on his part to bring the two nations into collision. It is time to speak the truth freely. It is a delicate matter to make public a personal conversation, and my only excuse is to guarantee the truth of what is known from other sources.

A Reason for Pressing the Claims. It is street talk here that the real object in pressing the claims is to induce exchange. They say the consul was in daily communication by letter and telegraph with the Minister of Finance at Santiago, thus receiving the earliest news bearing on the financial situation. He used his knowledge, and bought and sold bills of exchange and made money. He was advised of the constant gains made by the Congressionalists, but was willing to back his opinion even after he knew that they had received arms and had organized a force sufficient to defeat Balmaceda. He thought it would take months to do that, and so the sudden descent upon Quintero and the success which followed, raising exchange as they did, probably nipped him badly. If he could get exchange down again it would suit his bank account.

"In furtherance of that object he has talked to officials of foreign powers of his right to the Shield claim, for the same purpose. I believe that on the roll 427, No. 23, of the Keeweenaw, New York, July 18, 1891, one Patrick Shields is registered as born in Ireland, and is a subject of Great Britain. His case was one of maltreatment in prison. My diagnosis was that he was drunk. Nothing better shows the aggressive spirit of the officials than the manner in which they have made a claim like this when the data and register of Shields' desertion were in the Consulate and the State Department.

Correspondence Should Be Handled Over. "We all hope Congress will ask all the official and private correspondence bearing on the war to be handed over. What is printed it would show whether the representatives of the Government informed of the true condition of affairs here, or misrepresented the situation. "Egan's son had a railroad contract from the Balmaceda Government. Egan himself was the closest diplomatic friend of the defunct dictator. McCann comprised Balmaceda to Lincoln, and, after offering mediation, declared that it was impossible for the Congress to overthrow him. McCann talks volubly, and is busy with his bills of exchange. Brown, despite his denial, labors under the imputation of having furnished Balmaceda with military news. My opinion is that the testimony is such that there are no reliable or sufficient grounds for the sentiment of the naval officers, or for pressing claims or assuming a threatening attitude.

"Forbearance and magnanimity become a great people. Do not allow prejudiced and self-seeking representations to lead you to belie the traditions and history of the past."

The following United States citizens voted for the fact that John Trumbull is a man born in Chile of American parents, and a gentleman of education, who writes the foregoing honestly on the basis of facts within his possession, and that he is worthy of credence. Rev. James E. Clavin, W. S. Shrigley, P. A. McKeeler, A. A. Plotner and Rev. Frank Thompson.

Santa Claus' Visit. Won't be complete unless he leaves some of Marvin's nick-nacks, animal cakes, Christmas toys and cocoa-bon-bon macaroons for the little folks. Christmas toys have rings attached to them, and make beautiful Christmas tree decorations. Order them from your grocer. Don't let anybody make you believe that other crackers and cakes are as good as Marvin's. Make the test yourself and be convinced.

DEATHS HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

George W. Whitaker. George W. Whitaker died at his residence, Philadelphia, Saturday evening, of heart failure. The deceased, who was the youngest son of the late Joseph Whitaker, one of the oldest and best known of Pennsylvania iron manufacturers, was the manager of the Durham Iron Works in Bucks county for a number of years and until the outbreak of the war worked for Cooper & Hewitt during the war. Subsequently he took charge of the construction and management of the Saxon Iron furnaces at Hockersville and made his home at Bethlehem. The furnaces were built from his plans and under his own eye and he was the president of the company as well as the active manager of the works.

Mrs. Jane Graham. Mrs. Jane Graham, widow of Edward Graham, died at her home in New Castle yesterday, aged 85 years. The deceased was born in County Down, Ireland, and was a sister of Mrs. William Rowan and Mrs. Lottie McCaffery, of Pittsburgh, and the mother of John and Horace Graham, of Allegheny. She lived in Pittsburgh a number of years, but for 28 years past has made New Castle her home.

Mrs. Sarah Fair. Mrs. Sarah Fair, of Kittanning, whose funeral occurred Sunday, died aged 91, leaving 131 living descendants, three of them being in the fifth generation. She was the mother of nine children. Her husband died in 1875, aged 84. Her mother died recently, aged 88. One of Mrs. Fair's children, present at the funeral, was 70 years old. Quilts and shawls of her descendants live in and about Pittsburgh.

Harry W. Hagan. Harry W. Hagan, the well-known oilbroker, died Monday night at his home, Boquet street, Oakland. He was only 36 years of age, but was one of the foremost brokers of the city. For some time he has suffered from nervousness and last Thursday he was stricken with apoplexy. He was a brother-in-law of John E. McKee and was a member of the famous firm of McKee & Hagan.

Obituary Notes. REV. JOHN N. GALLAGHER, Protestant Episcopal Bishop, of the diocese of Louisiana, died at New Orleans Tuesday night, of Bright's disease.

WILLIAM H. JACKSON, an inventor and for a number of years one of the superintendents of the Singer Manufacturing Works, died at his home, in Elizabeth, N. J., Monday, aged 51 years.

T. VINCENT FAGAN, who for several years was known as a musical prodigy, died at his home at Harrison, N. J., Monday, of inflammation of the bowels. He was 21 years old and a son of the late ex-Alderman Fagan, of Harrison, and a nephew of the artist, Lawrence Fagan.

CHARLES OVERTON, colored, a well-known character in the section of Pennsylvania where he lived, died Monday at Wilkesboro, of pneumonia. He was 37 years old, and was the first colored man to open a store and sell goods between the Mason and Dixon lines. He was also the first colored man to serve as a juror in his county.

GENERAL WILLIAM GUMMER died at the home of his son, Thomas Gummer, at Jersey City, Friday, of pneumonia. He was 87 years old and belonged to the distinguished French Huguenot family of Gummars, who were among the first settlers of the Mifflin county. General Gummer served as Brigadier General of the Ulster and Sullivan county militia organizations.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED. By the Mathushek Piano. MESSRS. H. P. ECKER & CO., Pittsburgh, Pa.: GENTLEMEN—Knowing that you are desirous of obtaining opinions on the Mathushek piano, for which you are the sole agents, from persons who have them in use, I take the liberty of offering you our experience with the same. Over five years ago we exchanged a two-year-old piano of another make for one of your Mathushek uprights. The piano has been in constant use every afternoon and evening for over five years, and we can truthfully state that it has proved itself a wonderful instrument, and it is the only piano we know of which can stand such hard usage. The tone is as good as ever, and outside of an occasional tuning the piano has needed no repairs.

Anyone desirous of purchasing a piano for a lifetime cannot fail to be fully satisfied with one of your Mathushek pianos. Wishing you much success, gentlemen, I remain, E. H. STARR, Resident Manager Harris Theater, Pittsburgh.

Call and hear these excellent pianos at H. P. Ecker & Co.'s, 75 Fifth avenue, sole agents for the Mathushek-Hazelton, Lester and Wilcox & White parlor and self-playing organs.
